

...ieve of her night
...ee his face, but he
...d his face towards
...dark, wild eyes.
...ed her fingers
...ed his hand
...lled away.

...ice was
...stand.
...In
...ve
...r

...sorry. It is all my fault.
...to them. I should have
...have come to you very
...ear you. I waited so long
...so much loneliness. And
...ht no harm would come.

...Almost one thousand years
...worries or cares. Out hunting
...me and took me away as a prisoner
...As I grew, the daughter fell
...I refused her the mother p
...I would live for a thousand

Lillybear
http://www.lillybear.co.uk

Lillybear
http://www.lillybear.co.uk

